

ABSTRACT

A semiconductor integrated device, provided with a semiconductor chip on which a semiconductor integrated circuit is formed and a support substrate laminated on at least one surface of the semiconductor chip, wherein the semiconductor chip and the support substrate are fastened using resin having particle-the minimum film thickness of the resin is larger than the maximum particle diameter of the filler.